Abstract

Description

The HCA Healthcare Journal of Medicine would like to thank those behind the scenes who make this publication possible. Our journal would not be possible without the assistance of our peer reviewers, authors, and board members.

Keywords

scholarly communication; peer review; research; open-access publishing; education, medical, graduate; medical journalism

The HCA Healthcare Journal of Medicine shares its sincere thanks to the reviewers and editorial staff who have contributed to the journal in the second half of 2022. We have now started our fourth year of publication and look forward to another great year of content to share with our readers.

We would like to recognize 2 of our founding editors for their service to the journal. Clinical Co-Editor Hossein "Alex" Akhondi has been one of our most prolific editors and authors. His efforts as the lead editor of our internal medicine content require broad expertise. Dr. Akhondi's high standards and skills as an editor and educator have been a key factor in improving the quality of its publication over the past 3 years. We also recognize Editor Barbara Gracious. Dr Gracious is our lead psychiatry editor and her efforts as editor and author have produced many high-quality works from that specialty. She is also the lead editor for our Humanities section. Dr Gracious was the champion for including this content area in the journal and it has proven a welcome space for the medical community to share their artistic talents and also serves as a source for the journal's unique cover art. We sincerely thank Drs Akhondi and Gracious for their service.

In 2023, the journal launched 2 additional social media accounts to continue our attempts at reaching a diverse audience. The journal now has Instagram (@hcajom1) and LinkedIn (<https://www.linkedin.com/company/hcajom1/>) accounts. The journal continues to share news and updates via our Twitter account (@hcajom1). Please consider following us on one of these social media platforms and encouraging others to do so, as well. The journal also continues to expand its audio interview series. These interviews provide additional insight into the articles we publish and share conversations with physicians on topics of interest to our readers. All of our audio interviews can be found at: https://scholarlycommons.hca-healthcare.com/hca\_jom\_interviews/.

As always, we encourage our readers to consider submitting their work, both scientific and artistic, and ask them to consider sharing their expertise as peer reviewers. Authorship and peer review with the journal are forms of scholarly activity recognized by the ACGME.

Thank you for your continued support of the HCA Healthcare Journal of Medicine.

Author affiliations are listed at the end of this article.
